

Fabulous ideas, and a true passion and commitment to deliver excellent training to practitioners!

Thank you for putting these courses on for free. It is lovely to see your practitioners sharing their good practice with others.

Children's learning and development are greatly aided by exposure to nature. It supports children's meaningful connection to environment and fosters their physical and emotional welfare. Most importantly, the children learn to nurture their love of nature and help take care of their natural environmental.

