

B and the Toadstools October 2021

B it has been lovely watching you having an interest in the mushrooms. We first found them when we went to forest school. You listened carefully to what Chantal was telling you about them.

The next day you were still talking about them and got ready to go into the garden to look for more. When you found some more in the bottom garden you were keen to show everyone "Do not touch them, they are poisonous you must get a grown up so they can wear gloves." You spent a long time looking for more but did not find any. You told me "I want to find a toadstool that is red, I can't find one yet."

B you were so excited when you found the mushroom you had been searching for, you came and found a grown up "Look, look I have found a red one with white spots."

Chantal got her gloves and went with you to look at the toadstools, she cut the toadstool and brought it into nursery. You found the toadstool book and looked up the toadstool's name "Amanita" you said it several times so you could remember to tell your mummy.

It was so lovely watching you have such an interest in toadstools. I wonder what you will find and be interested in next.

"And look that's the one I found."

"Remember when I was in the garden I found some little mushrooms. It was so difficult to see."

"Remember you put all the different mushrooms on the paper."

"Look these are the white spots, these tiny bits - remember."

"The picture was the same as that one. Because it was red

"Do you remember when we do the Christmas things and I found a little book about mushrooms."

Inside the little book of mushrooms it had big mushrooms."
